BOARD CHAIR

The Selway Bitterroot and Frank Church-River of No Return Wilderness Areas cover a space so vast it's sometimes hard for me to wrap my head around it. Spread across two states, they include multiple mountain ranges, massive forests, abundant wildlife, and spectacular canyons carved out by raging rivers. This summer I got to spend a lot of time hiking in the Bitterroot and while gazing westward I'm always blown away by how this wild, rugged landscape seems to go on forever. This is one of the many reasons we love this special place.

One of the goals of the SBFC board is to make sure we have geographic representation from the communities surrounding these two huge Wilderness areas. Having geographic diversity helps ensure that different perspectives are represented, but it also makes it challenging for us to get together in person. While it has never been easier to meet virtually, there is no substitute for meeting face-to-face and spending time together. A board that knows and understands each other is better able to collaborate and help advance the mission.

Last month we got together for our annual board trail work project. We met in the Frank Church Wilderness working on the Bear Valley Creek trail outside of Stanley, Idaho. Over the course of the weekend we were able to clear 4.5 miles of trail, cutting out more than 130 downed trees. I love the feeling of satisfaction you get while hiking out at the end of the long day on a newly cleared trail. Equally satisfying for me is getting to know my fellow board members even better (as well as their spouses, and their dogs!). We came together because we care deeply about this vast 4 million-acre space, but it's the quality time we spent in this tiny corner that will help us do the long-term work of maintaining access to this wild and wonderful place.

All that said, we are recruiting new board members! If this sounds like something you'd like to be part of, see p. 8 for more info.

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

How do you measure the success of a season of Wilderness work? Miles of trail maintained? Feet of corridor brushed? Hours of volunteer service? Number of youth participating in Wilderness Expeditions? At SBFC, we measure, track, and report on all of these things and more. Quantitative outcomes are essential to any non-profit organization.

Each metric tells a slice of the story. And every number holds a different meaning for each person reading it. Knowing what it takes to maintain a trail drainage feature in real life is needed to understand what it looks like to maintain over 1,000 of them in the course of a season, and importantly, what that does to the longevity of that particular section of tread.

The metrics are all part of a larger story. The person behind each unit of output, their reasons for being out there, engaged in these places, doing this work—it means more than the work itself. The ways that working and being in the Wilderness can transform people is the most important "accomplishment".

The work that folks do on the ground is needed more than ever. There is an endless amount to be done across this landscape. The most important thing that SBFC does, in my view, is to create opportunities for many to volunteer and work seasonally, utilizing their hands, strength, ingenuity, grit, and resolve, all of which is required. Opportunities like these are in shorter supply than they used to be. It is our great privilege as an organization to continue fostering meaningful work in the Wilderness, season after season, with no end in sight. Wilderness work is like washing the dishes; once you finish, don't rest too long because more are coming your way.

Read on in this newsletter to learn more about our 2025 season metrics and the people doing the work in the Wildest Place!

2025 YOUTH WILDERNESS PROGRAM

The second season of the Youth Wilderness Program is in the books, and thanks to an incredible cohort of youth, their trusting parents, generous donors, and dedicated staff (including the inaugural Youth Wilderness Expedition Leader) and Wilderness Ranger Fellows, the season could not have gone better! This year, 49 teens from Idaho and Montana volunteered their time, sweat, and good humor on one of ten expeditions in the Selway-Bitterroot, Frank Church-River of No Return, and Gospel Hump Wildernesses. Collectively, the youth served over 1,500 hours of community service, clearing almost 50 miles of trail!

Youth Wilderness Expeditions focus on crucial wilderness stewardship projects. However, it's not all about saws and Pulaskis. Our youth volunteers, eight of them returners from 2024, learned about

"These types of trips always make me remember how much work goes into making these trails accessible, and I always feel like my respect grows for people who do this."

"Wilderness means a place for solitude, for peace, and for a slower life. Wilderness is where I feel most myself, and where I have made my best of friends."

the Wilderness Act, Leave No Trace principles, wildlife safety, backcountry navigation, local flora, and more.

In addition to the summer expeditions, SBFC staff spent time this spring visiting 23 schools across Idaho and southwest Montana, teaching over 1,100 students about Leave No Trace, the meaning of Wilderness, and ways to become involved in their local wilderness areas.

We are proud to continue the Youth Wilderness Program into 2026, and because of generous community support, we will continue to offer this program free of charge for participants. We look forward to reaching even more youth as we continue to grow the program, hooking more youth on wilderness for life!

"The more I find myself out here, the more I realize how lucky I am to have these opportunities and experience all of this. I am becoming increasingly more grateful for these spaces."

"I was torn between not wanting it to end and my desire for a shower."

THANK YOU TO THE 2025 YOUTH WILDERNESS PROGRAM SPONSORS & DONORS

SBFC RIVERS PROGRAM

At SBFC, we open pathways for people to discover and steward the largest wilderness complex in the Lower 48. This summer, that pathway led us to the river, where we found new ways to carry out our wilderness mission on and near the water.

In the Frank Church-River of No Return Wilderness, it's safe to say that the Middle Fork and Main Salmon River corridors see the greatest use, and are where there is the greatest upside to ensuring stewardship is happening. This occurs through on-the-ground work of Wilderness and River Rangers, as well as at the launches for each river, where thousands of eager boaters pass through each summer, and where Wilderness education opportunities are the greatest. There may be no more important stewardship activity along the river than educating people about why wilderness is special and how to take care of it. For these reasons, SBFC said yes this spring when we were asked to help steward the river corridors in the Frank Church-River of No Return Wilderness via hiring four river checkers and two river rangers. We are grateful to our river crew, who worked in tandem with Salmon Challis National Forest staff, helping to caretake these marquee Wild and Scenic Rivers.

We are grateful to share words from Ben Sholar, one of our 2025 river checkers primarily based out of Corn Creek this summer (the put-in for the Main Salmon). Ben was a ray of light to the river program, and we were thrilled to have him serving as an outstanding wilderness steward in the Frank.

JOIN OUR BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Do you call Boise, Salmon, Blaine County, or Lewiston home and care deeply about wilderness? The Selway Bitterroot Frank Church Foundation is seeking new board members from these areas who share our commitment to wilderness stewardship and access.

If you're passionate about protecting and connecting people to Idaho and Montana's wildest places, we'd love to hear from you!

EBB & FLOW: A SEASON ON THE SALMON

BEN SHOLAR, SBFC RIVER CHECKER

As smoke settles gently over Corn Creek, the river season naturally wraps up. It's hard to find the words for the immense gratitude I feel toward Corn Creek and the many pockets of community I was fortunate enough to experience during my time as a River Checker. I will put it plain and simple: Thank you. Thank you to the group that gave me their grandmother's homemade cinnamon roll at 7:00 in the morning. Thank you to all the people who invited me into their campsites with open arms, to share a beer in the evening, exchanging stories and simply being present. Thank you to the lovers of wilderness for caring about public lands. Thank you to everyone who sat through my extremely long regulations talk and laughed at all my cheesy river jokes. Thank you to each outfitter company for showing unmatched kindness and welcoming me into your groups as if I had known each of you for years. Thank you John, Brian, and Codi for being great people and caring about the corridors in which we say goodbye to all the folks launching. Thank you Brendan for visiting me that one Friday. Thank you to SBFC for providing such a great opportunity. Thank you to every person who came through Corn Creek this season.

Above all, I found that humanity thrives on the river. I truly believe it is the water that binds us and the trails that unite us. Sadness simply ceases to exist in a place like Corn Creek, even if for a brief moment. For me, there is no greater pleasure than witnessing the happiness, excitement, and sense of wonder our public lands provides for everyone. What a beautiful time it was to be here.

2025 WARREN MILLER WILDERNESS SKILLS AWARD

The SBFC Warren Miller Wilderness Skills Award is a peer-to-peer award given to the SBFC Wilderness Ranger Fellow who best displays the characteristics and qualities of the late Warren Miller, a legend in traditional tools and in the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness.

Warren worked in the Selway-Bitterroot for over 20 years, stationed in the backcountry on the only all-Wilderness ranger district in the country, at places like Moose Creek, Shearer, and Lost Horse Guard Stations. During his career, he became an expert with traditional tools and crosscut saw filing, helping to keep these skills alive into the 21st century. His unwavering dedication to the wild lands and the work of stewardship was unmatched. We honor Warren's memory by selecting a Wilderness Ranger Fellow as the "Warren Miller Fellow" each year.

The Wilderness Ranger Fellows were asked to nominate a peer to receive the award based on the following criteria:

- ♦ A passion for traditional tool use
- ♦ Eagerness to learn and a strong work ethic
- ♦ A genuine curiosity about Wilderness lands and values
- ♦ Self-motivation and a willingness to go above and beyond

We are thrilled to share that Raegan Dick is the 2025 recipient of the Warren Miller Wilderness Skills Award! Raegan came to SBFC from Michigan, where she is in her third year at Michigan Technological University, studying Forestry & Wildlife Ecology. Raegan's peers had this to say about her:

- ♦ "Raegan brings lots of curiosity and humor to a crew, and shows lots of interest in learning and mastering new skills while bringing all members of a crew together in a fun and uplifting way."
- ♦ "Raegan has a great attitude; she always looked out for everyone and the cohesion of the group."
- ♦ "Raegan is an amazing person to have on hitch. She cares so much about the work and learning more."

The Warren Miller Fellow receives as their award a handmade single-bit ax from SBFC Board Member, Nick Hazelbaker. Raegan was excited to put hers to good use!

We know that Raegan will be a great advocate for wilderness in all her future endeavors, and are so grateful for the time and energy she gave to SBFC this summer!

SBFC NAMED “OUTSTANDING GROUP OF THE YEAR”

We're honored to share that the Idaho Transportation Board recognized SBFC as the Outstanding Group of the Year for Region 2's Adopt-A-Highway program!

Since 2014, SBFC volunteers have cleaned a two-mile stretch of Highway 12 along the Lochsa River, one of the main gateways into the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness. This year, our team expanded its efforts to include a new section on Highway 13 near Grangeville.

The award was presented to longtime volunteer and SBFC board member, Nick Hazelbaker of Harpster, who coordinates our cleanup efforts.

We're grateful to everyone who has joined a highway cleanup day over the years... you help keep the path to wilderness beautiful!
